A TRUE STORY WITH A MORAL

When John S. lost his job the first week in December, the bottom seemed to drop out of the world for him and his young wife. They had been able to save only a few dollars. They were strangers in town and their credit was not good at the stores. To make matters worse, their baby was expected in mid-January. For weeks John S. walked the streets in search of a job, but all to no avail. Although it was the holiday season and business was brisk, at no place did there seem need for one more man.

The money which had been saved for baby clothes went to buy food and other necessities of life. Finally it was all gone. Then the small pile of coal in the cellar disappeared. On the Saturday before Christmas John S. left home early, and he vowed he would not return until he had obtained a job. A few hours later the young wife, realizing her hour had come, sent for the doctor. When he arrived he was amazed at conditions. He had last seen her when the little family seemed prosperous. He could hardly believe that the loss of a job could occasion such misery.

But he knew what to do. A small boy was sent scurrying to the corner store with a nickel and a telephone number and in a very few minutes a pert little Ford coupe chugged up to the front door. The Visiting Nurse realized that the first requirement was warmth and hot water. The stove for a time threatened to defy human hands. The ashes had not been removed for days. When it was finally cleaned out the wood refused to burn. But the nurse was undiscouraged and finally the warmth from the stove was making more cheerful the adjoining room where a new life was entering the world. Then came the futile hunt for baby clothes. Again the resourceful nurse knew what to do. The baby was wrapped in warm blankets, and taken to the office of the Visiting Nursing Association. There a layette, provided by generous women of Arlington, was waiting.

That night John S. came home with a job and his first day's pay. On Sunday Baby S. came home to a pair of happy parents. And Christmas morning dawned on a household everlasting grateful to the Visiting Nurse and the association she represented.

Many of the 5,850 calls made last year by members of the staff of the Arlington Visiting Nursing Association contained incidents equally as inspiring to a trained reporter as that described above. The story of this case was prepared for The Arlington Advocate by a lifelong reader, who for some years has been employed as a staff writer by a Boston newspaper. He and other residents of this community in similar positions are giving of their time and thought to the campaign by which the Arlington Visiting Nursing Association hopes to obtain 5,000 new members by May 1. Growing interest in the work of this laudable community enterprise, and willingness to support it, are being exhibited in all sections of the town.

LOCKELAND TO BE CENTRE OF BUILDING ACTIVITY

Twenty-One Lots Sold This Week at This Ideal Location on Mass. Avenue, Opposite High School. Construction
Already Begun on Several New Houses.

A fine future for the well-known Locke Farm on the south side of Mass. avenue, opposite Senior High School lot, was assured when a group of Arlington men of strong financial ability purchased the same and opened it up as a new residential section. We are of the not large number aware of the fact that hope of profit was the smaller factor in determining the action of the citizens of Arlington combining to obtain control of this ideally located piece of real estate. The preventing of what was threatened and regard for the welfare of the town—these were the determining factors.

It is therefore with special satisfaction that we present to our readers this week, evidence that "Lockeland," as the territory we are writing about is now named, is to be in the immediate future and for some time to come, a center of building activity.

From the syndicate owning "Lockeland," we have the following record of lots sold during the past week:

William J. Conway has purchased Lots 67-68, corner of Massachusetts avenue and Lockeland avenue. There are 14,381 square feet in this parcel, on which a mercantile building will be erected.

Lot 102, Churchill avenue, containing 6,000 square feet, has been sold to G. C. Hammond of Arlington. Plans are now being completed for a large Colonial house on this site, to be occupied as a residence by Mr. Hammond.

Lots 136-137-138, Bailey road, containing 6,500 square feet each, have been sold to Harlow Welch of Arlington. Mr. Welch has purchased for investment, and has already begun the construction of three model single houses on these lots.

Lots 129-130-131-132, Churchill avenue, containing 7,000 square feet each, have been sold to Messrs. Whitehouse & Freeman, and plans are now being finished by Gay & Proctor, architects, for dwellings on this site.

Lots 114, 116, 117, 120, 133 and 96 Churchill avenue, containing a total of 52,895 square feet, have been sold to Albert E. Scott, who will erect high-class dwellings on these lots at once.

Lots 115, 118 and 119, containing a total of 27,954 square feet, and situated on Newman Way, have also been purchased by Mr. Scott.

Lots 79-98-99-100-101, Churchill avenue, containing 7,000 square feet each, have been purchased by Messrs. Whitehouse & Freeman, and high-class dwellings will be constructed on these lots from plans of Gay & Proctor.

H. P. Hopkins of Arlington represented Messrs. Whitehouse & Freeman and Mr. Scott in the purchase of their lots.

Lots 111-112, Churchill avenue, containing 11,833 square feet, have been purchased by Otis E. Phalen of Arlington, who will erect at once two high-class dwellings on this site.

The barns which have stood on the Locke Estate for so many years are now being torn down and will be entirely removed by April 1st. The Locke house, now occupied by Mrs. Emma L. Sprague, is being repainted in colonial colors.

AN AVENUE OF FLAGS

Is What The Board Of Trade Is Striving For.

Arlington merchants and residents along our main thoroughfare are heartily cooperating with our Board of Trade in their plan for flag decorations.

An order has been placed this week for 350 flags which will be installed before the 19th of April, on both sides of Mass. avenue from the Cambridge to the Lexington line and on Pleasant and Medford streets, from Mass. avenue to include the cemetery in each case. The cooperation on the part of the merchants is 100 percent in every business section. All the town and church property will be decorated with flags placed 50 feet apart along the curb.

Some of the residents have not yet sent in replies to the Board of Trade letter, recently sent out, but all orders placed before April first will be filled.

Let us make our main thoroughfare an avenue of flags.

Chief Urquhart Urges "Safety First" to Pupils

Chief of Police Thomas O. D. Urquhart has been talking to the various schools of late relative to Safety First. No one knows any better than the chief how careless the school children are when it comes to crossing the streets or playing on the same. It was against this and the growing tendency of boys, and sometimes girls, of walking along the street and hailing every automobile that passes, for a ride. His advice is to have the automobilist stop this practice. The chief has given his talks in such a manner that they have been very convincing to the young folks, but whether or not they will practice some of the advice he gave remains to be seen.

Last Friday morning the chief appeared before the entire school body at the Junior High West and gave the pupils a talk on this subject. With him was Mr. McByrne of the Mass. Safety Council, who also gave the pupils some good advice relative to this now all-important subject. With the prevalence of the automobiles, the dangers are increasing every day.

At the important crossings of the town, where traffic is the heaviest, the town has traffic officers and if these crossings are used and the orders of the traffic officers lived up to, there will be but few accidents. This town has been very free from serious accidents of late years and Chief Urquhart is trying to have a clean slate as to deaths by accidents, during the coming year.

INFORMAL DANCING PARTY GIVEN BY MISS RUBY FOWLER

Miss Ruby Fowler entertained a group of friends with a delightful informal dancing party last Saturday evening, March 14th, at her home, 9 Harvard street, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. E. Fowler. The decorations used were very effective, carried out with green and white, symbols of the St. Patrick's day. Novelties and favors of St. Patrick's hats, were also used to add to the festivity. Eaton's Rag Pickers orchestra furnished the music for dancing. Refreshments of ice cream, punch, fancy cakes, candy and nuts were served by the hostess and her mother, assisted by Mrs. M. A. Moody and Mrs. W. D. King of Brookline.

Among the guests present were the Misses Marion Diehl, Marjorie Tinkham, Hazel Reis, Betty Doane and Beryl Moody of Arlington; Dorothy Wood of Brookline; Mrs. H. L. TWO BOYS ON RAFT GET AN UNEXPECTED THRILL

Two boys, Russell Perham, aged 8 years, of 55 Norfolk road, and Roland Steele, of 71 Norfolk road, aged 7 years, had a thrilling experience on Tuesday evening, just before dark and one they will not soon forget. Ever since there has been water and boards to float on, boys have had a hankering for rafts. These two were no different from any other boys. Curiosity brought them to the shores of Spy Pond near the foot of Chapman street. Here they found a roughly built raft. They had a lot of fun pushing the float back and forth from the shore, until finally both got onto the float and gave it a push off from the shore.

Success crowned their efforts and they floated off. After getting out a little way something went wrong with the ship for it remained stationary. Do what they would the boys could not budge the float, now thoroughly waterlogged. The plight of the boys was discovered and word sent to the police. Patrolman Charles E. Carroll and Daniel P. Barry were rushed to the foot of Chapman street and secured a boat. The two youngsters were rescued and brought to shore, where they beat a hasty retreat for home.

ROTARY CLUB'S FIRST SHOW NETTED FINE SUM OF $1200

Presentation of "The County Chairman" Shows Arlington Amateurs Possess Much Histrionic Ability. Proceeds to Be Given Various Worthy Local Causes.

The Arlington Rotary Club is to be congratulated on having put over not only a wonderful financial venture, but an evening's entertainment that afforded amusement to an audience that nearly filled the entire seating capacity of Robbins Memorial Town Hall, on Friday evening, of last week.

That the club has many live wires among its membership, will not be disputed. Men who not only have made a name for themselves in their chosen profession or occupation, but men with executive ability for every one knows that it is not easy to make a dramatic performance in Town Hall a financial success because of the large expense that it entails.

However, the club undertook such an entertainment and put it over. The four act play, "The County Chairman," by George Ade was selected with William O. Partridge, Jr., as coach and stage director. Everyone is familiar with "Billy's" work and so can judge of the character of the performance. Mr. Partridge, however, did somewhat of a task for there were in the cast men who had never been in dramatics and who could not be spoken of as young men, although as far as pep is concerned, they can't be beat. They, however, surprised even their friends who watched with keen delight, their initial performance.

Perhaps the biggest surprise was Harry P. Hopkins, who took the part of Honorable Jim Hackler. He did a good piece of work, bringing out the generous whole-hearted traits of the judge's character, but at the same time showing that he held a grudge against Elias Rigby, who, by a trick when a young man, had robbed the judge of the girl with whom he was in love and who became the wife of Rigby. This furnishes the plot of the story. That is, to try and beat Rigby in his ambition to become district attorney by electing Tilford Wheeler, Hackler's law partner. Hackler having found out that Rigby has withheld money which his ward, Chick, Elzey, has inherited, gives him a handle to check-mate his rival, but the love of his law partner for the daughter of Rigby, brings complications that make the story interesting but which is of course all satisfactorily adjusted in the end.

Edward J. O'Connor took the character of Tilford Wheeler, the young lawyer in love with Lucy Rigby. Mr. O'Connor has been a prize winner in declaiming at our High school and was selected because of this talent to declaim. With Miss Hoxie playing opposite him, their work was interesting for the world loves a lover. Miss Hoxie was splendid in her part. This could be easily said of all the other ladies in the cast. Miss Miriam Hendrick as Lorena Watkins, who meets so many "drummers" that she is never able to remember their name, was delightful in her part, while Miss Martha Pray as Chick Elzey, the chore girl, and ward of Rigby, gave a bit of acting that made a most favorable impression. Mrs. Alta E. Evans, as Mrs. Rigby, played with dignity and discernment of one familiar with dramatic work, while Miss Eleanor Homer as the nagging wife of Jefferson Brisco, gave a breeziness in the reading of her lines

WE WANT A SHARE

There is now under consideration in the Legislature a definite plan worked out by the Metropolitan Planning Division for financing a better metropolitan highway system. As a majority of the people of this town own automobiles, this becomes in a sense a personal matter and one of special interest as it provides for apportioning a portion of the receipts of the state highway department to be spent in the Metropolitan District.

The rate is not fixed in the proposed law, but it is expected that the state will be able to bear about 20% for this purpose without curtailment of other work being carried forward outside this district. This is expected to be a part only of total expenditure. The remainder of the cost would be borne by the entire Metropolitan District in the form of general assessments (not to exceed one third of the cost) and by additional assessments (not to exceed one third of the cost) upon individual cities and towns within the District in which the highways would be located and which would accordingly derive special benefit.

In one sense, there is nothing new or revolutionary in this proposal. The same general plan was followed in financing the cost of the Northern Gateway and Old Colony Boulevard. For many years, a substantial share of the cost of Metropolitan Parkways has come from the State Highway Fund. The proposed act only recognizes and establishes the principle.

The estimate is that the state will this year have an income from automobiles and trucks of ten million dollars, and the Planning Board is sure that with the 20% set aside for this district, there will be ample to carry on with what is now planned.

According to the Division's report, 40% of the state highway fund comes from automobiles in the Metropolitan District, but out of 1500 miles of state highways less than 95 miles are within the metropolitan area. It is recognized that state highway requirements come first, but now that they can be financed adequately and at an increasing rate, and there will be an excess, the right of the Metropolitan District to receive a larger return from its contribution, is apparent.

SOCIALISM BY INDIRECTION

President Coolidge has asked the Federal and State tax experts assembled in conference in Washington, to evolve a more simplified and economically sound method of raising revenues. He argues that there should be economy in income of revenue as well as outgo.

The overlapping of Federal and State inheritance taxes, he says, has resulted in a situation that amounts to virtual confiscation, wherein in many cases the total taxes levied may exceed the total value of the estate.

The President reiterated the belief he expressed last year when he signed the revenue act that the Government should withdraw from this field of taxation. He points out that in the past the Government has sought revenue from estate taxation only in time of war emergency and that it always has withdrawn when the emergency ceased to exist. Referring to the action of Congress in not only continuing, but actually increasing the rate on this form of taxation, the President said:

"If we are to adopt Socialism, it should be presented to the people of this country as Socialism, and not under the guise of a law to collect revenue. The people are quite able to determine for themselves the desirability of a particular public policy and do not ask to have such policies forced upon them by indirection."

INCREASE THE APPLE CROP

We have a considerable number of subscribers to our paper who are agriculturalists; not a few have orchards as a side-issue. A bulletin received from the State Agricultural department says that many experiments have proven that for Massachusetts orchards no fertilizing element is nearly as profitable as nitrogen. In 1924 tests were made in this County to show the value of nitrogen in orchards. The results obtained show that where the trees averaged 30 years old and 10 lbs. of nitrate of soda was applied per tree, the average increase per tree, due to use of nitrogen, was seven bushels, all over 2½ inches in diameter.

The average tip growth of twigs was 9½ inches on nitrated trees and 6½ on check trees. Three inches additional growth due to nitrogen. This means more bearing wood for the future. The increase in yield was worth at least $7. per tree and the cost of the nitrate was only 30c per tree. These figures surely indicate that the application of nitrogen is profitable.

Barnyard manure, while containing much nitrogen, is slow in action and expensive to handle. Much of its value lies in its organic matter content. A large share of this is wasted when it is not well worked into the soil. In general it will pay better to use manure on a cultivated crop rather than on the orchard. Chemicals will do well there.

A PRIZE OF $40 OFFERED

For Best Song Written By a Massachusetts Woman.

The Music Department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs has for a long time felt the need of a State song which extols the glory of Massachusetts rather than the glories of the nation.

As "America the Beautiful" so wonderfully expresses the latter, it is the best possible choice for the General Federation song, but not particularly appropriate for a state song.

The department is therefore offering a prize of $40—$20 for the words and $20 for the music for the best song written by a Massachusetts woman or women. The rights of publication to remain with the composer. The song must be of even meter with two verses of not more than eight lines each.

Chorus optional. It may be written in two, three or four part harmony, and within the range of middle "C" to the "E" in the octave above. This is the maximum range.

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Miss Mable Daniels, Mrs. Edward MacDowell, Prof. John P. Marshall and Mr. Frederick Converse will act as judges. The compositions will be sent to them numbered, with the name enclosed in a sealed envelope, and not to be opened until the decision has been made. Therefore, when sending manuscripts do not put your name on it, but enclose name and address in your letter.

All words not set to music must be in, not later than April 1st. If you wish to collaborate with someone, it will be most advantageous to do so.

The Contest will close May 15, 1925.

Send all manuscripts to Mrs. Mina G. delCastillo, Chairman of Music, 324 Franklin street, Cambridge, Mass.

ST. JAMES THEATRE

"Rolling Home," a comedy by John Hunter Booth will be presented next week by the Boston Stock Company at the St. James Theatre. Donald Brian originally starred in this piece two seasons ago in Chicago. It is distinctly an American comedy a sort of combination of "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" and "Turn to the Right," with enough originality to make it enjoyably different.

The plot concerns the adventures of Nathaniel Alden, who leaves Lowell Falls, Mass., and is gone six years. In his experiences he thinks he has struck it rich two or three times and wires this information home without correcting the impression when his dreams are punctured. The town folks think he is a millionaire and when he finally does arrive home, he is royally welcomed with brass band and all. The distinctly American trait of "bluffing" is characteristic of the breezy hero of the play. By special arrangement, John Hunter Booth, the author, will play a part in "Rolling Home."

Bernard Nedell has the leading role of Nathaniel Alden. Elsie Hitz is cast as Phyllis Weston, the country sweetheart. Other important roles are handled by Anna Layne, Olive Blakeney, Louis Leon Hall, Roberta Lee Clark, Ralph Remley, Samuel Godfrey, Houston Richards, Bertram Parry, John Collier and Hal Stack.

ARLINGTON SENDS APPARATUS AND POLICE SQUAD TO LEXINGTON.

Monday evening assistance was asked from this town to help handle the fire in the grain mill of the J. Cushing Company at Lexington center. The fire looked very bad when it was first discovered so Chief Taylor of the Lexington Fire Department did not take any chances. Arlington sent up one piece of apparatus to cover in at East Lexington and another to help at the fire. Deputy Chief Patrick J. Maguire of the Police department of Lexington, telephoned here for officers and Sergt. Theodore R. Belyea and a squad of men were rushed to the scene and did duty until the fire was out.

Send this paper to a friend out of town. It is like a long weekly letter from home.

Expert Radio Installation

If you are thinking of putting in a radio set, why not do it right? It is by far the cheapest in the end. Radio is a highly technical industry and your results will depend on how your set is built, apparatus that is in it and its installation. Guess work in radio is very unsatisfactory and many times more expensive in the end. I offer you 20 years' experience in Electrical, Mechanical, and Radio Engineering. If you take my advice on your radio equipment, I guarantee you full satisfaction and furnish you with any advice or coaching that you may need. I can furnish you with references from others who will gladly tell you what my services have done for them.

Lenten Thoughts

"A LENTEN MEDITATION—1925"

Rev. Henry Sterling Potter, D. D.
Minister of First Baptist Church.

It is well for us that once a year we try to repeat in our lives the sweet and sacred experiences of those who were closest to our Lord in the hour of His Gethsemane and Calvary. With the coming of this holy season we quite instinctively slacken our feverish pace and listen to those holy voices to which we are deaf when the din of life's turmoil and strife is in our ears. As we step softly beneath the shadows cast by the Passover moon in the Garden of the Olive Press, we learn anew the true meaning of prayer as we see our Saviour in the dark alone with His God. And what a picture it is! Judas the betrayer at the gate; the forces of the world seeking for their innocent prey with swords and staves; the disciples, His nearest earthly friends in whom He might expect to find a loyalty now, sleeping; God alone His refuge, comfort and help! With what new courage and increased strength our Lord arose to face His cross after that hour alone with God! His soul was now in perfect contact with the dynamics of heaven and He could take the cup and do the Father's will in strength divine. What a helpful lesson for us poor humans when in the soul the conflict is on between the wrong that is easy and the right that demands a sacrifice!

Another word that comes to us out of the shadows of Gethsemane is that the conquests of the faith are spiritual and not physical. When Peter unsheathed his sword he denied the Divinity of his Lord. The chivalrous devotion of the impulsive disciple revealed a splendid motive but an iniquitous method. He would establish the Kingdom with the twelve legions of angels rather than with the cross of Calvary. He would make it a Kingdom of death rather than a Kingdom of life. He would conquer the world by bullets and bayonets rather than by bibles and blessings. He would burden his and succeeding generations with heavy taxes to try the gunboat and fighting plane method of civilizing the world and begrudgingly put his penny on the plate to send the gospel of sacrificial love and divine brotherhood out into the selfish world of envy and strife. He had forgotten the word of Him who said "The thief cometh not but that he may steal, and kill, and destroy: I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly." But the life of the world is at the cost of a divine cross and it can come no other way.

The frenzied mob at the gate with swords and staves had behind it all of the powers of the world's greatest empire and the most magnificent civilization yet produced by the genius of man. It knew full well how to use the sword and all the machinations of death. The lonely Nazarene was forsaken and alone and only God was with Him. The only force He knew how to use was the force of sacrificial love and His only weapon was His cross. The conflict was on and for two hundred and fifty years tremendous forces fought for mastery. Nero lighted his garden with living torches of dying Christians. Power, pride, and prejudice massed their forces against the cross but ere three centuries had gone a Christian emperor lifted his sceptre from the seat of Nero and Diocletian. The cross had conquered. So must it ever be. A new world wherein dwelleth righteousness and love can come only by the way of Gethsemane and Calvary. Eternal love agonizing in the Garden and breaking its heart on the mount speaks the dawn of a better day.

WHAT WILL THE BABY DO?

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health sends to us the following data that may be of interest to young mothers:—

The mother who understands what to expect from her child will save herself a great deal of needless worry. For example: The soft spot in the top of the head begins to close at fourteen months and is entirely closed at two years. Baby holds up his head, unsupported, during the fourth month. He laughs aloud from the third to the fifth month. He reaches for toys and holds them from the fifth to the seventh month. He sits erect and holds his spine upright at seventh or eighth month. He attempts to bear weight on the foot at the ninth to tenth month. He stands with assistance at eleventh to twelfth month, and begins to walk alone at the twelfth to thirteenth month. He walks alone from the fifteenth to sixteenth month. At one year he speaks a few words.

At one year of age the baby will have about 6 teeth; at one and one half years 12 teeth; at two years 16 teeth; at two and one half years 20 teeth; and at six years he will have 24 teeth and will begin to shed his first teeth.

It is natural for the child of two years to begin to get into mischief. He will also be fond of making experiments. The child of two will begin to show the color sense, to distinguish red, yellow, and white, and to discriminate musical tones.

LARGE TRUCK HIT BY
TRAIN AT SWAN PL. CROSSING

Accident Last Friday Afternoon Delayed Traffic On Mass. Avenue. No One Injured.

A heavy Mack truck belonging to the Central Wrecking Co., of Chelsea, was tossed nearly 15 feet by the Swan Place railroad crossing last Friday afternoon, after having been hit by the engine of the train due to leave Arlington at 4 o'clock.

The wrecking company is doing the work of demolition at the Swan Block, and the truck had just come out of the hollow in the rear of the old structure, which is in close proximity to the crossing. The driver, Frank Levine of Chelsea, claims he was proceeding across the tracks slowly, preparatory to turning around in Swan Place. He was ready to back the machine, when he was signaled to go ahead, as the train was approaching. He says that he was going forward when hit.

Engineer George Murray claims that as the train approached the crossing the truck had crossed the tracks, but that, as the engine neared the place where the machine was, the truck started backing, and that hitting it was inevitable.

The impact was so strong that the left back wheel was driven two feet or more into the soft dirt at the side of the tracks. The driver was thrown from his seat, but apparently escaped injury, and the truck, which was later pulled out by another of the wrecking company's machines, did not appear to have suffered much damage.

Traffic both ways on Mass. avenue was delayed for about 15 minutes, and the train was 45 minutes late leaving the station. Conductor Charles Twombly was in charge of the train.

THREE HORSES AND AN AUTOMOBILE IN A MIXUP

That it is bad business for an automobile to get within the range of horses' hooks, was demonstrated on Thursday evening of last week on Mystic street, near Morningside. Three horses, owned by the Union Stables of Chelsea, were being led along the street by Wesley Fuller, of Tyngsboro, who had been riding but who had gotten off to walk a short distance.

To be sure the horses were not equipped with tail lights but they were slowly walking along toward a prospective feed when an automobile, owned and operated by John J. Brogan of 4 Ashburton avenue, North Woburn, came along, going in the same direction as the horses. The machine hit the horses from behind which they resented by flinging out their heels to the detriment of the automobile. The damage done during the few seconds that three pairs of heels landed on and into the machine, was extensive.

The horses, not taking any more chances, set off at a fast clip toward Winchester, where they were rounded up later by Patrolman Farrell of that town and held for Mr. Fuller, who came along after he had given the details to Patrolman Coughlin.

ST. MALACHI COURT
CELEBRATE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The members of St. Malachi Court, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, enjoyed a very pleasing program in connection with their meeting held in Hibernian Hall on Thursday evening of last week. The business meeting was gone through rapidly and then the program, appropriate to St. Patrick's day, was presented. Guests of the evening were Rev. Mathew J. Flaherty, pastor of St. Agnes Church; Dr. Helen I. Doherty McGillicuddy, head of the order; J. A. Coyle and T. M. Fitzpatrick, each delivering a short address.

James J. Flynn of Dorchester, well known Irish tenor, entertained with a number of Irish songs and stories. A skit, "Jockey dance," was presented by the Misses Gertrude, Marian and Doris McCarthy and Miss Hicks. The McCarthy sisters also entertained with readings, and instrumental numbers. Daniel J. Doyle gave several buck and wing dance exhibitions. The pupils of Prof. Harrington of Boston gave a very pleasing exhibition of Irish jigs and reels, this number calling forth many encores. Miss Margaret Curnyn entertained with piano numbers and vocal numbers, and Miss Frances Ahern sang a group of Irish songs. Mrs. Driscoll gave a number of readings, Michael Meaneet and Miss Burle vocal numbers.

The evening closed with a collation. Mrs. Josephine Silvery had charge of the evening's program.

ARLINGTON MEN'S CLUB

The Arlington Men's Club will hold its annual Ladies Night on Monday evening, March 23, in the vestry of the Congregational Church. Mr. Pennypacker will address the club on the subject of College Preparation. Mr. Pennypacker who is chairman of the committee on admission at Harvard has long been prominent in the educational world. He prepared for college at Phillips Exeter Academy and entered Harvard College in the class of 1888. He was prominent in college not only in scholarship but also in athletics. Incidentally he is the new chairman of the athletic committee at Harvard. He was a Master in the Boston Latin School from 1891 to 1910, when he was made headmaster, a position which he filled until called to Harvard in 1920. Mr. Pennypacker's life work has been the preparation of boys for college and he has an important message for all who are in any way interested in the subject. The club has been most fortunate in securing Mr. Pennypacker and extends an invitation to the people of Arlington to attend the address at 8 o'clock.

UNIVERSALIST WOMAN'S ALLIANCE MEETS HERE

Ninety-nine women, representing seventeen Universalist churches, were the guests on Friday, March 13, of the Samaritan Society of the First Universalist Church of Arlington, at the first meeting of the Universalist Women's Alliance of Greater Boston. Milford, with one delegate, and Worcester, with two, were the most distant churches represented. The First Universalist Church, Cambridge, sent the largest delegation, thirty-one.

Others which answered the roll call were Somerville (First) eleven; Charlestown, ten; Medford Hills, nine; Everett, eight; Roxbury, six; Winter Hill, Somerville, five; Grove Hall, four; Saugus, three; Brookline, Lynn and West Somerville, two each; Quincy, Medford (First) and Framingham, one each.

The movement was promoted by Mrs. Frank Oliver Hall of New York and Arlington, wife of Dr. Hall of Tufts College. She enlisted Mrs. Wallace M. Powers of Jason street, formerly of New York and a president of the Metropolitan (N. Y.) Alliance of Universalist Women, and together they gained the support of the local Samaritan Society. Mrs. Emma Hesseltine, president of the society, issued invitations to the women of sixty Universalist churches within a radius of forty miles. She opened the meeting with a welcome to the visitors and then resigned the chair to Mrs. Powers, who served as chairman of the day.

Under her direction a program similar to that followed by the New York women was carried out. First came an interesting report of religious news in and outside of the Universalist fellowship, given by Mrs. Charles F. Coolidge of Jason street. The minister of the church, Rev. Charles F. Patterson, spoke briefly and then the aims and achievements of the New York Alliance were described by Mrs. Ada F. Shorey of the Church of Our Father, Brooklyn, a former president of the Metropolitan Alliance. She seconded the efforts of Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Powers to form a similar organization in metropolitan Boston.

Dr. Hall was next on the program, followed by Rev. Dwight R. Ball, recently come from North Carolina to the ministry of the Winter Hill Universalist Church. Mr. Ball took the place of his wife, who was ill, and presented the opportunity which beckons Universalist women of the north for constructive work in the south. The program included solos by Paul R. Bennett, accompanied by Mrs. Elmer Stevens of Somerville, who retired last year after twenty-five years of service as organist of the Arlington church.

The next meeting of the Alliance will be held on April 17 on invitation of the women of the First Universalist Church, Somerville. In May the women of the First Universalist Church, Cambridge, will entertain. At that time, if the enthusiasm of the first meeting continues to grow, it is expected that a permanent organization will be effected.

FRIENDLY FOLK BRIDGE

The Friendly Folk connected with the Orthodox Congregational church, under the supervision of a special committee, gave a bridge party Monday afternoon in the Parish House on Pleasant street. There were thirty-two tables used in play and at the conclusion of the bridge, there was a prize for the highest scorer at each table. They were a parchment covered telephone index and were made by Mrs. Roger Tenney, who was a member of the committee. Mrs. Herman Gammons was the chairman of the committee and had as her helpers besides Mrs. Tenney, Mrs. J. Stearns Cushing, Mrs. Paul Lincoln, Mrs. Wilson D. Clark, Jr., Mrs. Albert W. Hilliard, Mrs. Ralph W. Day, and Miss Isabel C. Gratto. The afternoon closed with the serving of ice cream and fancy cakes. A goodly sum will be realized from what proved a pleasant social affair.

WOMEN'S CIRCLE MAKES

Birthday Cake For Its Pastor, Rev. James E. Norcross.

The Gentlemen's night held by the Women's Circle on Monday evening proved very successful. A fine pot luck supper was served consisting of a varied menu of salads, cold meats, escalloped potatoes and desserts. Two birthday cakes were at the place occupied by the pastor, Rev. James E. Norcross, which he cut and were served to those present. Mr. Norcross celebrated his birthday anniversary on Sunday, March 15th and the members made observance of the event by making the cakes. The rooms in which the guests and members were entertained, were prettily decorated for the occasion. About ninety attended and enjoyed the supper and the entertainment which followed, which consisted of recitations and vocal selections. Community singing was participated in with Miss Mildred Norcross accompanying at the piano. The evening's program was in charge of the executive committee, chaired by Mrs. James E. Norcross, president.

THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN

which the audience was quick to discern.

The play is one that gives the male characters more of an opportunity, for, as the name implies, it centers around the County Chairman.

The right properties are an important essential of any dramatic performance. These were in charge of Harold W. Cole, and his selections of the proper settings had a great deal to do with the excellent stage effects produced.

The first scene in the first act gives Main street in front of Vance Jimmison's store in August. Nothing better has ever been set up on a stage in Arlington than this. The store with broad steps leading into it, on which sat the county "loafers," and at one side farm implements for sale; the town pump where Henry (David Buttrick) comes to fill his jug with water was splendid, while the get up of the actors made the scene so realistic that it did not take much imagination to feel one in the atmosphere being depicted.

Here were introduced all of the characters. Forbes Robertson as Elias Rigby not only had a splendid make up but he played the character to perfection. Another outstanding figure was Walter K. Hutchinson, Jr., as Uncle Eck Milbury. As the old "Rube" he never was out of his part while his make up was perfect. Ray E. Mauger, as Jupiter Pettaway, in love with Chick Elzey did a good piece of acting which can also be said of James E. Doughty as Joseph Whitaker, the traveling salesman for a wind mill concern, who is finally caught in the matrimonial net by Lorena Watkins. His character work with Miss Hendrick furnished a good bit of laughter during the performance.

George M. Vail, as the store keeper, Vance Jimmison; Walter H. Peirce as Cal Barcus, were two others in the cast who made their initial appearance before the footlights. That the audience appreciated their part in the play was evinced by its hearty applause. Proctor Michelson as Wilson Prewitt, made the most of a small part, while Edward H. Hutchinson as Riley Cleaver and Walter T. Chamberlain as Jeckeron Briscoe, the two county sports of the town in their high hats and dress coats, made a typical picture of county bosses.

The willingness of Mr. Partridge to take one of the leading characters, helped to put the play across the foot lights in great style. He, in his well known style, impersonated the colored Sassafras Livingstone, who might easily be called the village parasite and he gave a true depiction of the character.

The others in the cast had no speaking part, but each added to the picture of country life during a political campaign. They were Carl Settele as Chub Tolliver; Richard Burnham, who took the character of Amos Whitney, substituting for Ralph Stevens; J. Bradbury Fellows, as Dawson Montgomery; and little Marion Evans as Tilly. There were besides, a bevy of young men and women who represented the townspeople, campaigners and Village Girls.

The second scene and act gave the Court House grove where the grandstand had been erected for campaign speeches. The brass band was introduced in this act. The third scene in the third act, however, was the most realistic, with the air tight stove in Jim Hackler's law office, around which gathered the politicians to discuss the coming election. The scene between Jim Hackler and his boyhood sweetheart, now the wife of his political rival, was a splendid bit of acting. The last act and scene was the Town Hall on the day of the November election, where the returns are received and the play is brought to a close.

Between the acts Mr. C. A. Powers, song leader of the Cambridge Rotary Club, which club was represented by a large delegation who were thus observing its ladies night, led the audience in Community singing and how the hall did ring with the music. Every lady in the cast was presented with a large bouquet of pinks. Harry Hopkins got a wonderfully decorated cabbage, George Vail a plate of ice cream, for Rotarians know George's fondness for ice cream; Walter Peirce a bouquet of hay, Walter Hutchinson a bouquet of fruit and vegetables; while David Buttrick's pals, remembering his fondness for custard pie, passed one to him over the foot lights.

An incident during the evening that was a surprise, was the presenting of a large bouquet of roses to Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Hardy, whose wedding anniversary fell on that night and which the Arlington Rotarians recognized in this happy way. The president, L. E. A. Smith, made the presentation, to which Mr. Hardy responded with apparent feeling of appreciation. The hall rang with applause to this popular Rotarian.

The evening closed with dancing to the music of the Original Six orchestra. As we have said, the venture was a huge success. The thirty-two page program, gotten out by the club, and printed at the Advocate office, covered the entire expenses of the show, so that the club expects to make the handsome sum of $1200, to be distributed among several of the organizations in the town. The sale of candy and ice cream netted $74.

The committees who had the affair in charge follows:—
Program, Dr. Brace I. Lawley, George M. Vail, Wilmer G. Tenney, Tickets, Walter H. Peirce, Charles H. Higgins, Philip Eberhardt, Publicity, Charles S. Parker, Chester A. Moody, Paul Fraser, Ways and Means, Harry P. Hopkins, Walter K. Hutchinson, Jr., Harold Cole, Walter F. Angus, William V. Taintor, Ushers, Arthur J. Norwood (assisted by fellow members, Property, Harold W. Cole, Refreshments, Mrs. L. E. A. Smith, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Angus, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Norwood.
The ushers were Arthur J. Norwood, 1st floor; Walter Angus, 1st

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT ENDS IN AN ARREST

Residents in the neighborhood of Mass. avenue near Wyman street were awakened early Tuesday morning by a crash. It proved to be a light truck that had run into an electric pole, when the driver was fleeing from Officer William Burns, who had seen the truck speeding down the avenue and had ordered the man to stop. The automobile was said to be owned by Samuel Lieberman of 77 Oak street, Cambridge, which he had reported as missing to the police. The young man who gave the name of Joseph Mahoney, aged 17, of 33 Gore street, Cambridge, was cut a little on the forehead. Th's was attended to by Dr. Harold Webb. He was then taken to police headquarters and booked on several charges, all of which he was found guilty of when he appeared in court Thursday morning. He was fined on each complaint and also received a sentence on a charge of larceny of an automobile. In court it was said that Mahoney was not his name, but rather Joseph Gallagher. There was another young man in the truck at the time of the accident, but he escaped.

MENOTOMY CHAPTER, D. A. R. FIRST GUEST DAY

Friday, March 13th, at the St. John's Parish house, Menotomy Chapter had as its guests the State Officers of the D. A. R., Presidents of the Women's Clubs of Arlington and Members of the press. Each guest, on her arrival, was presented with a beautiful rose. After the salute to the flag and the American's creed, the Regent, Mrs. Charles F. L. Morton, presented Miss Isabel Wyman Gordon, State Regent of Massachusetts, who spoke to the members on the privileges of being a Daughter. Mrs. James C. Peabody, State Vice-Regent, was next presented, and she spoke of the various patriotic activities of the organization.

The Chapter was then presented with a beautiful gavel, made of the wood of the famous Washington Elm. On the silver ferrule attached to the gavel, was inscribed "Presented to Menotomy Chapter, D. A. R. by Mrs. Charles F. L. Morton, its Founder and First Regent."

The Misses Bernadine and Virginia Brooks with Miss Helen Linden, gave the following selections, which were much appreciated: "Belle Nuit" and "Intermezzo," Miss Elinor Hunt, pupil of the high school, then read most acceptably, an original poem, "The Old Revolutionary House."

For the entertainment of the guests, Miss Bertha Bartlett of Lynn, the noted lecturer and world wide traveler, was secured. Miss Bartlett has probably had more unique and thrilling experiences than any other living woman, and she told the Chapter of some of these experiences. The "Minuet in G" and "Polish Dance," was then given by the trio, after which there was a short reception to the State Officers and Miss Bartlett.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Leslie Cotton and her assistants. The table, at which Mrs. Emma Stott and Mrs. Belle Wheeler, poured, was beautifully decorated with roses and greenery. It was a most successful afternoon, and one long to be remembered.

GRADY FAMILY REUNION IN G. A. R. HALL

Ninety-three years ago, James Grady came to this country from Tipperary, Ireland, and landed in New York in 1832. Since that time the Grady family has increased in numbers so that it may be found all over the country. In order that family connections might become better acquainted, a reunion was conceived. This was the second held by the "clan" and was in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening, when the Gradys far and near with their families, attended. It was arranged by James Grady of this town, who is the descendant of the third generation. The circular sent out announced that no O'Gradys nor McGradys would be admitted, they must be plain Grady and of the original line of James Grady. Over 100 attended the reunion and it was a happy affair all the way through. Grady's came from far and near, some from New Hampshire and some from New York. In the early evening, there was a reunion in the upper hall and then all formed in line and marched to the dining hall where a banquet was served. Bart Grady, pianist at Keith's Theatre was one of the prime movers of the reunion and handled the affair. Blessing was asked by Rev. Mathew J. Flaherty, pastor of St. Agnes' Church.

So that the little folks could have something to take up their time, a Punch and Judy show was provided after the dinner. The older folks assembled in the upper hall where they had a grand time. Starting off there was a prize dance. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Rose Dwyer, Miss Rose Dwyer, Miss Ann Hayden and Miss Maudie Heffernan. Vocal numbers were given by Miss Gertrude Sharkey of Medford and Kathleen Scanlan of Somerville, the latter being a tot seven years old. Saxophone numbers by Joseph Scanlan, accompanied on the piano by Bart Grady. Rosemary Cliggott of Medford, a tot of five years, gave several readings. Ann and Lawrence Grady of Boston, gave exhibition dances, Martin Grady of Lexington gave clog dances, the Schwartz sisters of Lexington did a song and dance number and Miss Sara Hayden of Medford gave several readings.

Between the special numbers, there was dancing. This was enjoyed until a late hour.

Minister, REV. FREDERIC GILL, D.D.

What is our life? It is an opportunity for play. The world is a playground, on which we are to take time for free, light, pleasant activity just for the fun of it. Life is a school, in which we are not merely to gather information and knowledge, but to acquire wisdom. We ought to be learners all our lives. Every incident, every person can teach us something if we are wise enough to learn it. The world is also a workshop, in which we are to do some task, bring forth some product, that will serve human needs, by which we earn our living, and are able to stand on our feet, erect and self-respecting among our fellows. Finally, the world is a temple in which we are to worship the Lord of heaven and earth, who is Our Father and Our Friend. In such worship and communion our humanity attains its noblest life.

What Glorious Times Our Girls Are Having Today!

Annual Report of Girl Scouts Tells of Their Advantages

When I was a girl, I knew the old-fashioned Betsy of hoopskirts and crinolines. Intimate indeed was my acquaintance; for I was she! I know, too, the present-day Betsy, my own dear great-granddaughter of one-piece frocks, sensible shoes, and independent ways. I rejoice in her—perhaps envy her a bit!

I see her swinging off down the road with the Girl Scouts; and I think with a pang of my own youth. How well I remember my squeezed-up feet, my squeezed-up waist, my squeezed-up body and my squeezed-up mind! In comparison with my great-grandchild I was only half alive! She has a free body, a free spirit! A sense of abundant vitality, which I never knew, glows from her eyes. Fortunate for her that this is so. If she were as frail of body, as untrained of mind as I was at fifteen, she could not survive the pressure of complex modern life.

In my early teens, life was simple for womenfolk. They had not yet left the home to follow the work which machine invention had taken from their kitchens to factories. Men's activities were varied, but women's interests lay within four walls. If life were circumscribed, it was at least what we were used to, what our mothers and grandmothers had been used to since the dawn of the race.

A strange new world has appeared overnight—amazingly different from the world I knew as a girl. I had big rooms to play in, a porch over-breathing with honeysuckle, sweet air to breathe. On the site of our old homestead, subways roar. There is a din of steam-shovels and riveting. I used to wander with my dog in a birch-grove where now skyscrapers loom in a haze of coal-smoke. In cubicles of such buildings, millions of present and future mothers are toiling for a living, not because they wish to be modern, but because they must or starve. To cubicles of other cliff-like structures they return, spent with the day's monotony. History has no record of homes like these, homes without privacy, spaciousness, homes without so much as the smell of a lilac leaf or the purr of a tortoise-shell cat to link them up with the kind of life which nourished my beginning years.

Gone is the old-fashioned girlhood, gone the simplicity of women's lives. The feelings which flowed out to household tasks, the love of mate and child have been, for many women, in this age of transition, denied normal outlet. No wonder we hear of young girls, demoralized and adrift, throwing away precious years and energies in a frantic chase for sensation!

My great-granddaughter is safe from this tragedy of maladjustment. The Girl Scouts have returned to her the heritage which the Machine Age has taken away from growing young folk. They have created conditions friendly to her unfolding nature. Like all girls for hundreds of thousands of years, she has simple, primitive tasks, care of children and of animals, service to others, responsibility for the happiness of those dear to her.

The mother of the future must be a pioneer—a breaker of new paths, not only in her own life, but in her community and in the larger community which is the civilized world.

Watch Betsy in camp with her Girl Scout patrol! Is this not a school for pioneers? Eee how muscular and wiry she is. Her skin is tanned, her cheeks glow like autumn-stained oak leaves, her hair is pert, bobbed, and brown. It wasn't genteel in my day for a girl to be that robust. Sickly maids were the fashion. We even nibbled slate-pencils to get an interesting pallor.

See her chop wood, build a fire in the camp stove, leap the fence to pick raspberries, help cook for her Girl Scout family of eight! She does her share of routine, not for routine's sake, but to win blessed leisure hours for tramping, swimming, folk-dancing, canoeing, dyeing bright-colored scarves, taking part in a play or pageant, studying birds and flowers, learning to carve wood or make hammocks, or perhaps for sitting still in the sun or under the stars.

There is a poetic Betsy who responds sensitively to beauty and the love of companions, an adventurous Betsy who loves open trails, a practical Betsy who can bathe the baby, melt the frozen water-pipes, wrestle with a stopped-up sink. On the sleeve of her uniform are sewn a score of the colorful, embroidered "merit-badges" which the Girl Scouts award for achievement in health-winning, baby care, cookery, sewing, laundry work, accomplishments in art, music, writing, out-of-door-living. With the winning of each badge, she has gained self-confidence and the only kind of happiness that is real—the happiness of creative achievement.

The girl I used to be! Shall I call her back and let you choose between her and Betsy of the present?

Through the dim veil of years, she moves before our eyes. See the fountain of curls, the fichu of exquisite real lace, the quaint, rustling crinolines.

She has been told to be a little lady. Lady-like her primly-crossed feet hidden under mountainous petticoats, lady-like her curtsies, her fragile gestures, her saucer-eyed way of listening to elders. It is for her to be seen and not heard.

She sleeps with windows down because she fears night air. She can cook, but she doesn't know the back of a healthful diet. Her most strenuous out-of-door exercise is croquet, archery, or perhaps riding horse-back with a side-saddle swathed in voluminous skirts. She is gentle, but with the gentleness of weakness and timidity, not the nobler gentleness of strength. She screams at mice and faints at the sight of a garter-snake. (Girl Scout Betsy thinks mice and snakes interesting little creatures.)

On the most fragrant spring mornings, she doesn't dare to open her lungs and take a deep breath of air. Her stays might burst!

She will be called a tomboy if she climbs a tree, a bluestocking if she interests herself in books and ideas, an unnatural, unwomanly woman if she dreams of educating herself for a profession!

Give me the Betsy of 1925 with her Girl Scout motto, "Be Prepared." For me, more and more girls like Betsy, secure from the dangers which beset girl-life today, competent, valiant, resourceful as the women of pioneer America. The modern girl who has had Girl Scout training has everything that the girl of my day had—and all for which I longed in vain. She may well face the future with a confident smile.

—On Monday the center girls played the sophomore girls' basketball team. It was an exciting and fast game and not until the last few minutes did the high school score their winning point.

—Judging from reports of tourists from northward, we escaped a good snow storm on Saturday. In New Hampshire and Maine they got plenty of snow, while we got rain. The latter was far more acceptable.

—Saturday an automobile operated by George T. Murphy of Manchester, N. H., went through a fence opposite 388 Mystic street, when Mr. Murphy lost control of the machine. The fence for quite a piece was knocked down.

—Mrs. W. D. Storey of 234 Gray street is confined to her home, where she is recovering slowly from a recent operation performed on her ear. Her many friends are sorry to hear of her illness and hope for a satisfactory recovery.

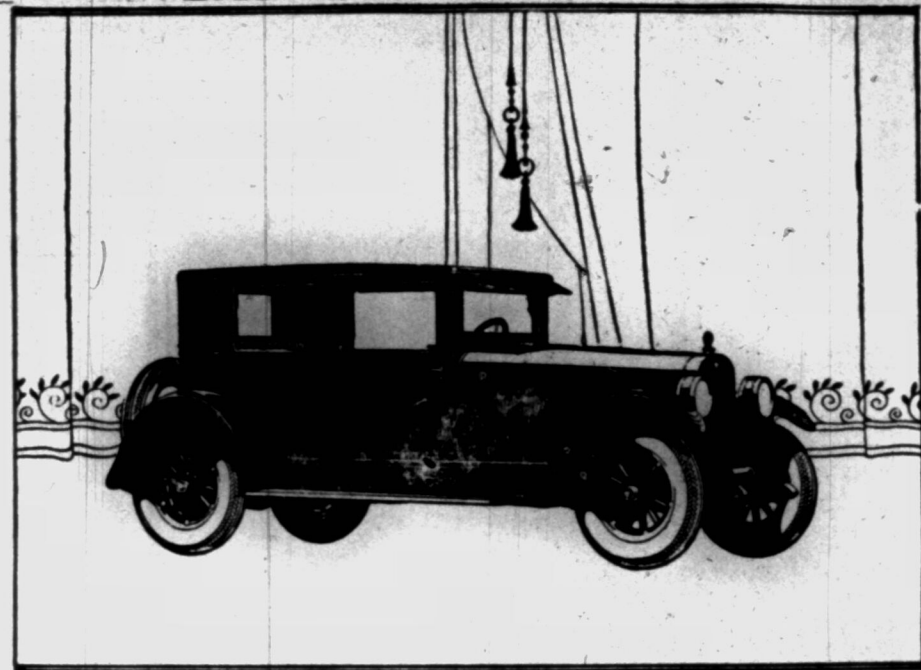

—Wellington Paul of 153 Medford street and George Coburn of 7 Newton road, were riding on a bicycle last Friday on Medford street, when the machine was hit by an automobile operated by Henry O. Vidal of 21 Sedler street, Gloucester. Both boys were thrown off the machine but were not injured to any extent.

—The police were informed of another hold-up on Saturday night. Karekin Bedrosian, who conducts a store at 79 Broadway, reported that during the evening, two young men walked into his place of business and held him up, taking from him about $20.00. The police were given a good description of the men but no trace of them was found.

—The fourth quarterly conference will be held at the Calvary church this evening, Friday, March 20th at 8.15, presided over by Rev. James E. Coons. The church family night supper will be at 6.30 with the Paquin club as hostesses, followed by a devotional period and an address by Dr. Coons on "The Meaning of Methodism."

—Sunday afternoon a serious accident was narrowly averted on Mass. avenue, near Daniels Road, when an automobile operated by Alfred Leger of 540 Mass. avenue, Boston, came out of a private way near there. The operator evidently did not hear the electric car coming along. The car and automobile came in collision, considerable damage being done to the machine. Mr. Leger escaped injury.

—The ruins of the ice house recently burned on the shore of Spy Pond, are still smoking and much of the debris standing. The ice is piled up to a considerable height. It would seem that this is dangerous, especially when the rays of the sun get at the pile, which might cause it to slide. There are a great many who pass by the ruins and it would be far safer if a gang of men were put to work and the cakes of ice toppled over into Spy pond, where they would be out of all chance of causing trouble.

Everyone Says It—Sales Prove It

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone. That is acknowledgment of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle. The largest production of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world give it unequalled value advantages.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance. At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

—The recently acquired property of the town adjoining Hill's pond has taken on a decided change. Tree Warden Daniel M. RECENT DEATHS.

WILLIAM EDGAR HARDY

The relatives and friends, both numerous, of Mr. William E. Hardy, were shocked on Wednesday, at learning of this sudden prostration on the Tuesday noon previous, in the home on Norfolk road. It proved fatal, death coming Wednesday afternoon at 3.40 from heart trouble, after only three days' confinement to his bed.

William Edgar Hardy was the son of the late Rodney J. and Sarah E. Tenney Hardy and was born in Cambridge, May 7th 1866, the twin brother of Charles A. Hardy, Arlington's town treasurer. The family moved to Arlington from Cambridge in 1869, taking the house on Lake street, that has recently been purchased by the town, on the site where is to be built a new school house. He attended our elementary schools, but when a young man entered the boot and shoe business, being employed in the same firm in which Charles Crane, a former resident of Arlington, was interested, and of which Ex-Mayor Martin was a member. He left the employ of this company to go to Chicago where he remained for some ten or twelve years, returning to Arlington on the death of his mother.

Mr. Hardy then entered the firm of his father, long established under the name of R. T. Hardy & Sons, grain merchants, with business at 177 Milk street, Boston. For twenty-five years Mr. Hardy travelled all over New England. His genial personality made many friends in the business world, and he was respected and admired because of his sterling traits of character.

In October 31, 1903, Mr. Hardy married Kate Tenney, of Hollis, N. H., a distant relative of his mother. The couple have always resided in Arlington. In 1911 the Hardys built a home at 49 Norfolk road, where the family has since resided.

Low spoken, with ever a smiling face and cordial manner, Mr. Hardy easily made friends and by reason of his even temperament retained them. These qualities and his keen business ability, made his service sought for. He was a 32d degree Mason, being a member of Hiram lodge of Arlington, Menotomy Royal Arch chapter, in which he was a director for many years, Boston Commandery and Aleppo Temple.

He has also been prominently identified with the Boy Scout movement, having served on the Arlington Boy Scout Council and is one of the past presidents of the same. He was a member of the Middlesex Sportsman's Association and Arlington Historical Society. Mr. Hardy has been a loyal supporter of the Orthodox Congregational church in which his parents were for a long period prominently identified. At the time of his death, Mr. Hardy was one of its deacons and has served on some of the most important committees in the church.

It is therefore fitting that the funeral services should be held there, which will be Saturday, March 21st, at 2.30. The devotional services will be conducted by Rev. Don Ivan Patch, the minister of the church, who has had the loyal and devoted support of Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Hardy is survived by his wife and three children. Ralph J., who is attending Brown University; Anna, a senior in Arlington High school and Katherine, a freshman. Besides these, the deceased leaves two sisters and two brothers. They are Mrs. Samuel B. Dean, of Roxbury; Miss Mary C. Hardy, who is head of the Latin department in the Cambridge High schools; Rodney T., and Charles A. Hardy, both of Arlington, the former the senior member of the firm in which his two brothers have been connected.

MRS. MARY E. MOYLAN

Mrs. Mary E. Moylan, wife of Daniel J. Moylan, died on March 11 at her home, 55 Wildwood avenue, following an illness of about ten days. LEGION NOTES

Were you down to our last Post meeting? You missed something if you weren't. We almost had to put out a "standing room only" sign.

April 19th plans are nearing completion. A lot will be said on this matter at our next meeting, March 24, 1925.

How many people realize that April 19th is just as much a day for Arlington to celebrate as any other town. We are told that on the original 19th of April, the fighting started in Arlington, and finally wound up again in Arlington at the end of the day.

Tom Rafferty, baseball scout and player for the Detroit Americans, is expected to be on hand at our next meeting, March 24, 1925, to tell the boys about some of his experiences in baseball. It will be well worth coming down to and you don't want to miss it.

Once again, don't forget the date, March 24, 1925, at 8 P. M.

MEMBERS OF ST. AGNES CHOIR
PRESENT "PEG O' MY HEART"

The Irish drama, "Peg O' My Heart," was presented in Robbins Memorial Town Hall on Tuesday evening by members of the choir of St. Agnes Church, most of whom reside out of town, under the direction of William F. Kelley, choirmaster of the church, before a packed house, and many standing through the four acts. There have been many amateur performances in this hall in the past but none that have surpassed this. The acting throughout would have done credit to professionals.

Miss Katherine Carroll as Peg, scored a hit from the time she made her appearance in the opening act until the curtain went down at the close. She took the center of the stage, and with ability held it, for she played with a naturalness of a carefree Irish girl, while her dog Michael, captivated the audience.

Charles Coyne, as Alaric Chichester, an Englishman of high breeding, portrayed his part well, while the comedy between Miss Carroll and Mr. Coyne was splendidly done. Mrs. Marion McBride, in the role of Mrs. Chichester, had a difficult part but she handled it admirably, as did Miss Mary Kelley in the part of her daughter, Ethel Chichester. Joseph Lane, as Jerry, played with the ease of a professional. William Hines played Montgomery Hawkes; Arthur Day, Christian Brent; John Hargadon, Jarvis, and Miss Catherine Roache, Bennett. They were each well cast, for in their part they had an opportunity to do their best work. Mr. Day, in the role of the villain, did a good bit of acting. The young Irish lass, Peg, about whom the play centers, had many difficult situations to work out in telling the story of her high and mighty English relations with whom she was to live and the amusing situations that arose and the remarks of Peg kept the audience in gales of laughter. This same cast gave the play in Belmont one evening in January.

The singing of Irish songs by the audience between the acts was much enjoyed.

On Monday evening the play was presented for the children of the parish and again every seat in the hall was occupied. The proceeds will be devoted to the school building fund.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY DINNER AND ENTERTAINMENT

The St. Patrick's Day dinner and entertainment given on Tuesday evening, March 17th, at the First M. E. Church, was well attended and enjoyed. The menu consisted of braised beef, mashed potato, turnip and squash, rolls, coffee and pie. Decorations were most attractive, being in green and white. The new platform in the vestry was used for the first time when a delightful program of music and readings was given by Mrs. Norman Hitchcock, soloist, and Miss Irma Cross, reader. Miss Mabel Smith accompanied at the piano. A humorous sketch of a ladies aid meeting was given with the following taking part:—Mrs. F. Cogan, as president; Mrs. Ivan Smith, Mrs. J. B. Knight, Mrs. May Stockbridge, Mrs. William Fowler, Mrs. Charles Cross, Mrs. William Solomon, Mrs. Arthur McPherson, Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Theresa Frame and Mrs. H. T. Coontz. They wore old fashioned costumes and entertained very cleverly with readings and songs in which they lauded the work of the ladies aid. The committee in charge was chairmanned by Mrs. J. B. Knight.

MISS ALICE WRIGHT WILL SPEAK
At St. John's Church, Wednesday,
March 25.

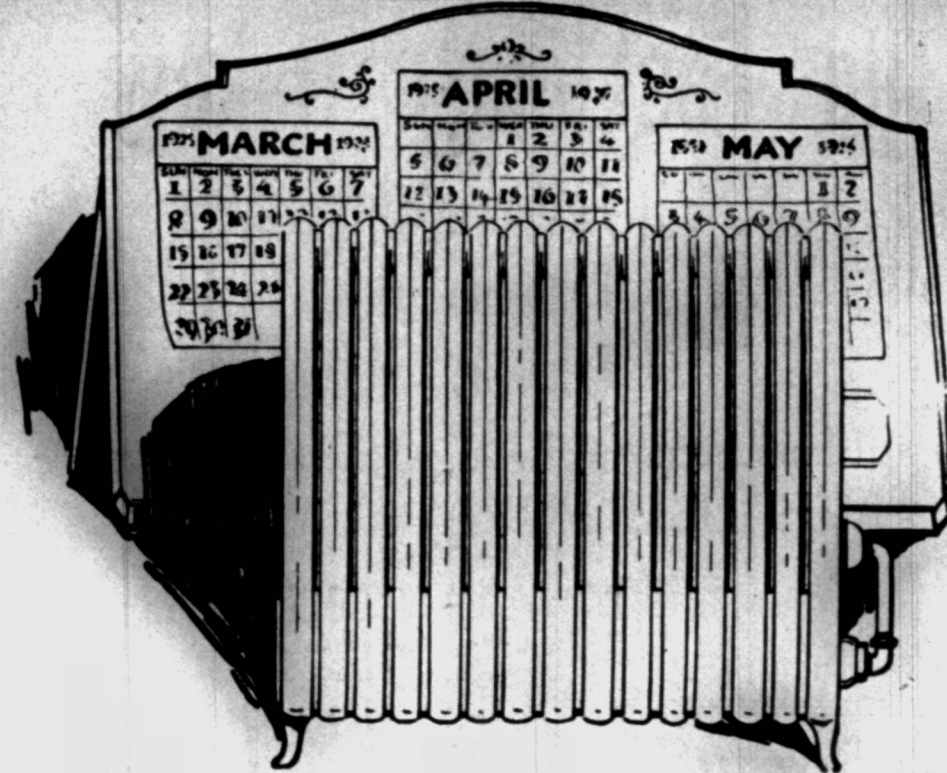

Miss Alice Wright, senior missionary of St. Mark's School at Nenana, Alaska, who is spending a week around Boston, will speak at St. John's Church, Arlington, Wednesday, March 25, at 2.30 p. m., and tell of her work among the Indian children in the Alaskan mission of the Episcopal Church. Miss Wright has about thirty boys and girls from distant Indian camps who live in the school, and there are others who attend as day pupils. The school was built in 1908 by funds contributed from the men's missionary thank offering. It costs about $8000 a year to maintain the work. Miss Wright has been in Alaska ten years and knows the life of the interior as few other women do, and therefore, has an interesting story to tell.

JEANNETTE RANKIN
Member of 65th Congress, Addresses
Searchlight Club.

At the meeting of the Searchlight Club, held last Thursday at the home of the president, Mrs. Arthur A. Lawson, on Ravine street, a very enthusiastic group of women listened to Miss Jeannette Rankin, the first woman ever to be elected to the United States Congress. Miss Rankin talked on "The Outlawry of War." That Miss Rankin aroused a vast amount of interest in her subject, was shown in the number of questions asked, following the talk. Her answers to the questions showed her well versed in her subject.

Miss Rankin urged the formation of organizations of women who would work for peace. She is strongly opposed to war and feels that it is possible to do away with war. Moral laws there are for the individual and why not moral laws for the nations? Men know they cannot lie, steal and murder without bringing about their own destruction, why should not this be the same for the nations?

Miss Rankin believes that the League of Nations and the World Court are a step in the right direction. If all would live and think peace, it would have its desired effect in time. One of the best defenses of the country Miss Rankin believes, is to train men for work, health and self-command. No woman should allow her son to go to war unless she is certain she has done everything to prevent it. Mrs. Frederick Sawyer, vice-president of the club, presided in the absence of Mrs. Lawson.
